

Samoset School Box and Hickory Forest Box

Take Union Street out of downtown Leominster and stay on it until you get to Samoset and Fall Brook schools on the left, just after Holy Family Church. Take the driveway all the way to the school at the top and park in the upper parking lot. You will see the trail head on the wooded side of the lot. It is marked with a blue blaze.

Enter and follow the path through a stone wall. When you get to the T intersection in the trail turn left and walk to the cluster of tall trees just before the trail takes a sharp right. The Samoset School box is hidden amidst this cluster of trees. After stamping in please rehide it carefully.

Go back to where you turned left and now go straight following the blue dots under the power lines. Continue on this trail as it goes downhill, through a stone wall and under more power lines. You will come to a point where a yellow dot trail takes off on the right, do not take this, stay on the blue dot trail as it winds it's way through the woods. After awhile you will notice the stone wall reappear on the left and you will cross a tree that is lying across the path. Watch on the left for a break in the wall. Go through this opening and look down on the left. The Hickory Forest Box is about 2 steps away at the base of the stone wall covered by a rock and sticks.

Return to your car the same way you came.
